Circle in the Square: Building Community and Repairing Harm in School. Nancy Riestenberg, Living Justice Press, paperback, 2012, 278 pages.

In this, her first book, Nancy Riestenberg writes warmly and with long experience about the challenges facing school communities and how restorative measures specifically create a safer space for learning and development for all. Using stories direct from the hallways, she brings heart to subjects that are often divisive and controversial: bullying and other violence, suspension, drug use, staff conflicts, and more. Throughout the book, Nancy's focus is on strategies that actually work for the whole school community: students, parents, administrators, teachers, and the community in which they live.

"Circles can be used when tensions develop."
